Club Matters

At last week's meeting we had an evening with David Leith Jones FRPS as he took us first to Italy and then Kenya. The latter was especially fascinating as through his photography he showed us the lives of the nomadic Masai tribes. A proud people who herd their animals in the traditional manner, David demonstrated that their lifestyle is similar to that depicted in ancient Egyptian times and goes back at least back 10,000 years. David explained how recent well intentioned efforts to improve their existence had the opposite effect and those who continue to practice the ancient customs are the ones who thrive.

We have now had two of our Sunday Afternoon Tea social sessions. They are an opportunity to talk with each other at a time when other interaction is restricted. All are welcome.
